

Beware of the Latest "Phishing" Scam Related to the Data Breach of Massachusetts-based TJX Cos.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (5/7/07): Another phish attempt brandjacking the name of the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) is circulating--this time taking advantage of consumers' security fears related to the data breach of Massachusetts-based TJX Cos.

And, like other phish, it provides a link that brandjacks NCUA's name and website. It also provides a phone number with an area code from Texas. NCUA is based in Arlington, Va.

NCUA and credit unions do not send unsolicited e-mails asking for consumers personal information. Anyone receiving the e-mail should not click on the link but should delete the message instead.
